

Periodicals A-to-Z List

You may find a citation to an article in print, or somewhere that doesn't have the "Check for Lycoming Access" link. Use the Periodicals A-to-Z List on the library Web site to find out if we have a particular journal, and if so, for what dates and in what format:

The screenshot shows a library website interface. At the top, there are navigation tabs: Index, Titles (selected), Subjects, Search, and Rep. Below the tabs, there are links for "Return to full title list" and "Advanced search". The search results show "Browsing: Periodicals A-to-Z List" and a search box containing "New Literary History". Below the search box, there is a heading "Titles where title name contains 'New Literary History'". Under this heading, there is a section titled "New literary history" with several links and their corresponding date ranges: "JSTOR Arts & Sciences III Archive Collection 1969 - 2005", "JSTOR Language & Literature Archive Collection 1969 - 2005", "Literature Resource Center 1993 - 1995", and "OCLC Electronic Collections Online 1995 to present". At the bottom, there is a link for "Project Muse - Basic College Collection 1995 to present". Below the links, there is information about the ISSN (0028-6087 Online ISSN: 1080-661X), the publisher (Johns Hopkins University Press), and the subject (Language and literature -- English literature -- Literature).

- WorldCat (books at other libraries)—can also limit to German language, much larger selection of foreign-language books!
- InterLibrary Loan (ILL)
- E-Z Borrow

* Be sure to leave enough time for the books to be delivered to you!

Article Databases

- MLA International Bibliography (literature)
- Academic Search Elite
- Literature Resource Center (almost exclusively English)
- JSTOR & Project Muse

Database Tips:

Use AND and OR to narrow and broaden your search. For example:

schiller AND drama

Use the * symbol to look up all variations of a word at once. For example:

humo*

will retrieve “humor,” “humour,” and “humorous,” etc.

Search for your keywords in English and in German (you can combine them with OR to search for them all at once).
