Louise Larzelere Chatham: The first woman lawyer in Lycoming County

Why the woman asks to be represented by a woman on the petition:

1. Out of the 140 teachers of William-		amount of work.
2. About one-half of the popula-
3. And even the boys here
4. The school, though
5. Women have served successfully
6. A woman, just because she is a
7. Without you feeling that your			itself, to the best of her testify at the scene of the crime, had in the presence of the judge and as a woman, you cannot

Marriage

On June 24, 1897, 25-year-old Louise married Newton Chatham, a law student at the University of Pennsylvania. The newlyweds were reportedly quoted in a newspaper article: "The reception of Miss Louise Maas Larzelere and Newton Chatham was one of the most popular and fashionable of the season. The wedding was held at the home of the bride's parents, 530 Gay Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Chatham left for an extended tour of the Great Lakes. They reside at 591 Yest Street." Newton was the son of Walter and Jennie (Carothers) Chatham, originally from Lock Haven. Newtorn held a variety of positions, including a post as a policeman in the school and as a member of the local chapter of the Home and School Mothers' Association. Louise was the daughter of Adolphus and Mary Carothers, and she was also a founding member of the Women's Club of Williamsport in 1924 and of the Business and Professional Women's Club. She was a member of the Creighton Club and the Business and Professional Women's Club. She graduated from Williamsport High School in 1898. She was also a member of the Woman's Club of Williamsport in 1924 and of the Business and Professional Women's Organization. She was a member of the Creighton Club and the Business and Professional Women's Club. She was a member of the Creighton Club and the Business and Professional Women's Club. She was a member of the Creighton Club and the Business and Professional Women's Club. She was a member of the Creighton Club and the Business and Professional Women's Club.